

Congressman Jason Lewis

U.S. Service Academy Information Night

Are you interested in attending one of the U.S. Service Academies?

If you are thinking about applying to one of our nation's service academies, you may have questions about the application process, including requirements for admission, the application timeline, and the process for seeking a Congressional Nomination from your U.S. Representative and Senators. To help you better understand the process, Congressman Lewis is hosting an information session for interested students and their families.
